I have been researching CalFresh medical expenses however I have not been able to find information regarding medical marijuana (cannabis). We have a client who has a Physician Statement in order to purchases medical marijuana. I attached the Physician Statement to the e-mail that the client provided us. Is medical marijuana a medical expense for CalFresh?

10. REQUESTOR'S PROPOSED ANSWER:

According to 63-502.331 Excess Medical Deduction include
 (c) Prescription drugs when prescribed by a licensed practitioner authorized under state law and other over-the-counter medication (including insulin) when prescribed by a licensed practitioner or other qualified health professional. In addition, costs of medical supplies, sick-room equipment (including rental) or other prescribed equipment are deductible;

Our disabled client has received a prescription for marijuana from a licensed practitioner who is authorized under state law. According the 63-502.331 the client is eligible for the medical deduction.

11. STATE POLICY RESPONSE (CFPB USE ONLY):

No. Under both federal and state regulation, marijuana may not be allowed as a medical deduction. In December 2008 the United States Department of Agriculture, Food & Nutrition Service provided CDSS with clarification regarding the use of medical marijuana as a medical deduction as follows: In 2005, the Supreme Court outlawed the use of marijuana for medical reasons and concluded that state marijuana laws do not protect users from a federal ban on the drug. Since the FSP is a federal program and the Supreme Court has ruled that marijuana, even for medicinal purposes, is illegal, FSP recipients cannot claim the cost as a medical deduction. Per California regulations, 63-502.331 prescription drugs are an allowable medical expense for the elderly or disabled. However, a recommendation from a physician is not a prescription. Even though Prop. 215 is now law, it is still not possible to get a standard prescription for marijuana from a doctor. Instead, Prop. 215 permits doctors to make recommendations for medical marijuana use, either in writing or verbally. Pharmacies cannot carry marijuana, due to federal laws that ban the drug.
